

Peabody Museum

Harvard University | Cambridge, MA

Architect for expansion

We initially completed an analysis and architectural program which projected long-range space needs for the museum's administration, research, exhibit, library, teaching, and collection storage facilities for the Peabody Museum. Upon completion, we designed a 35,000-sq.ft addition to the museum for a new anthropology library, which houses an extensive collection of American Indian art and artifacts.

